

The bridges in Kuron are heavily damaged from flood in Kuron River

Jonas Halvorsen reports from his return from Kuron, South Sudan:

Attached are two photos from the suspension bridge and the car bridge in Kuron. Looks like the car bridge is in good condition, but that the roof / planks have been removed from the river. The suspension bridge is badly damaged. I do not know if the foundations are still standing - then it may be possible to save it